

Telehealth and Infection Control

1

Telehealth reduces the need for physical contact or travel, since patients are seen from the comfort of their homes.

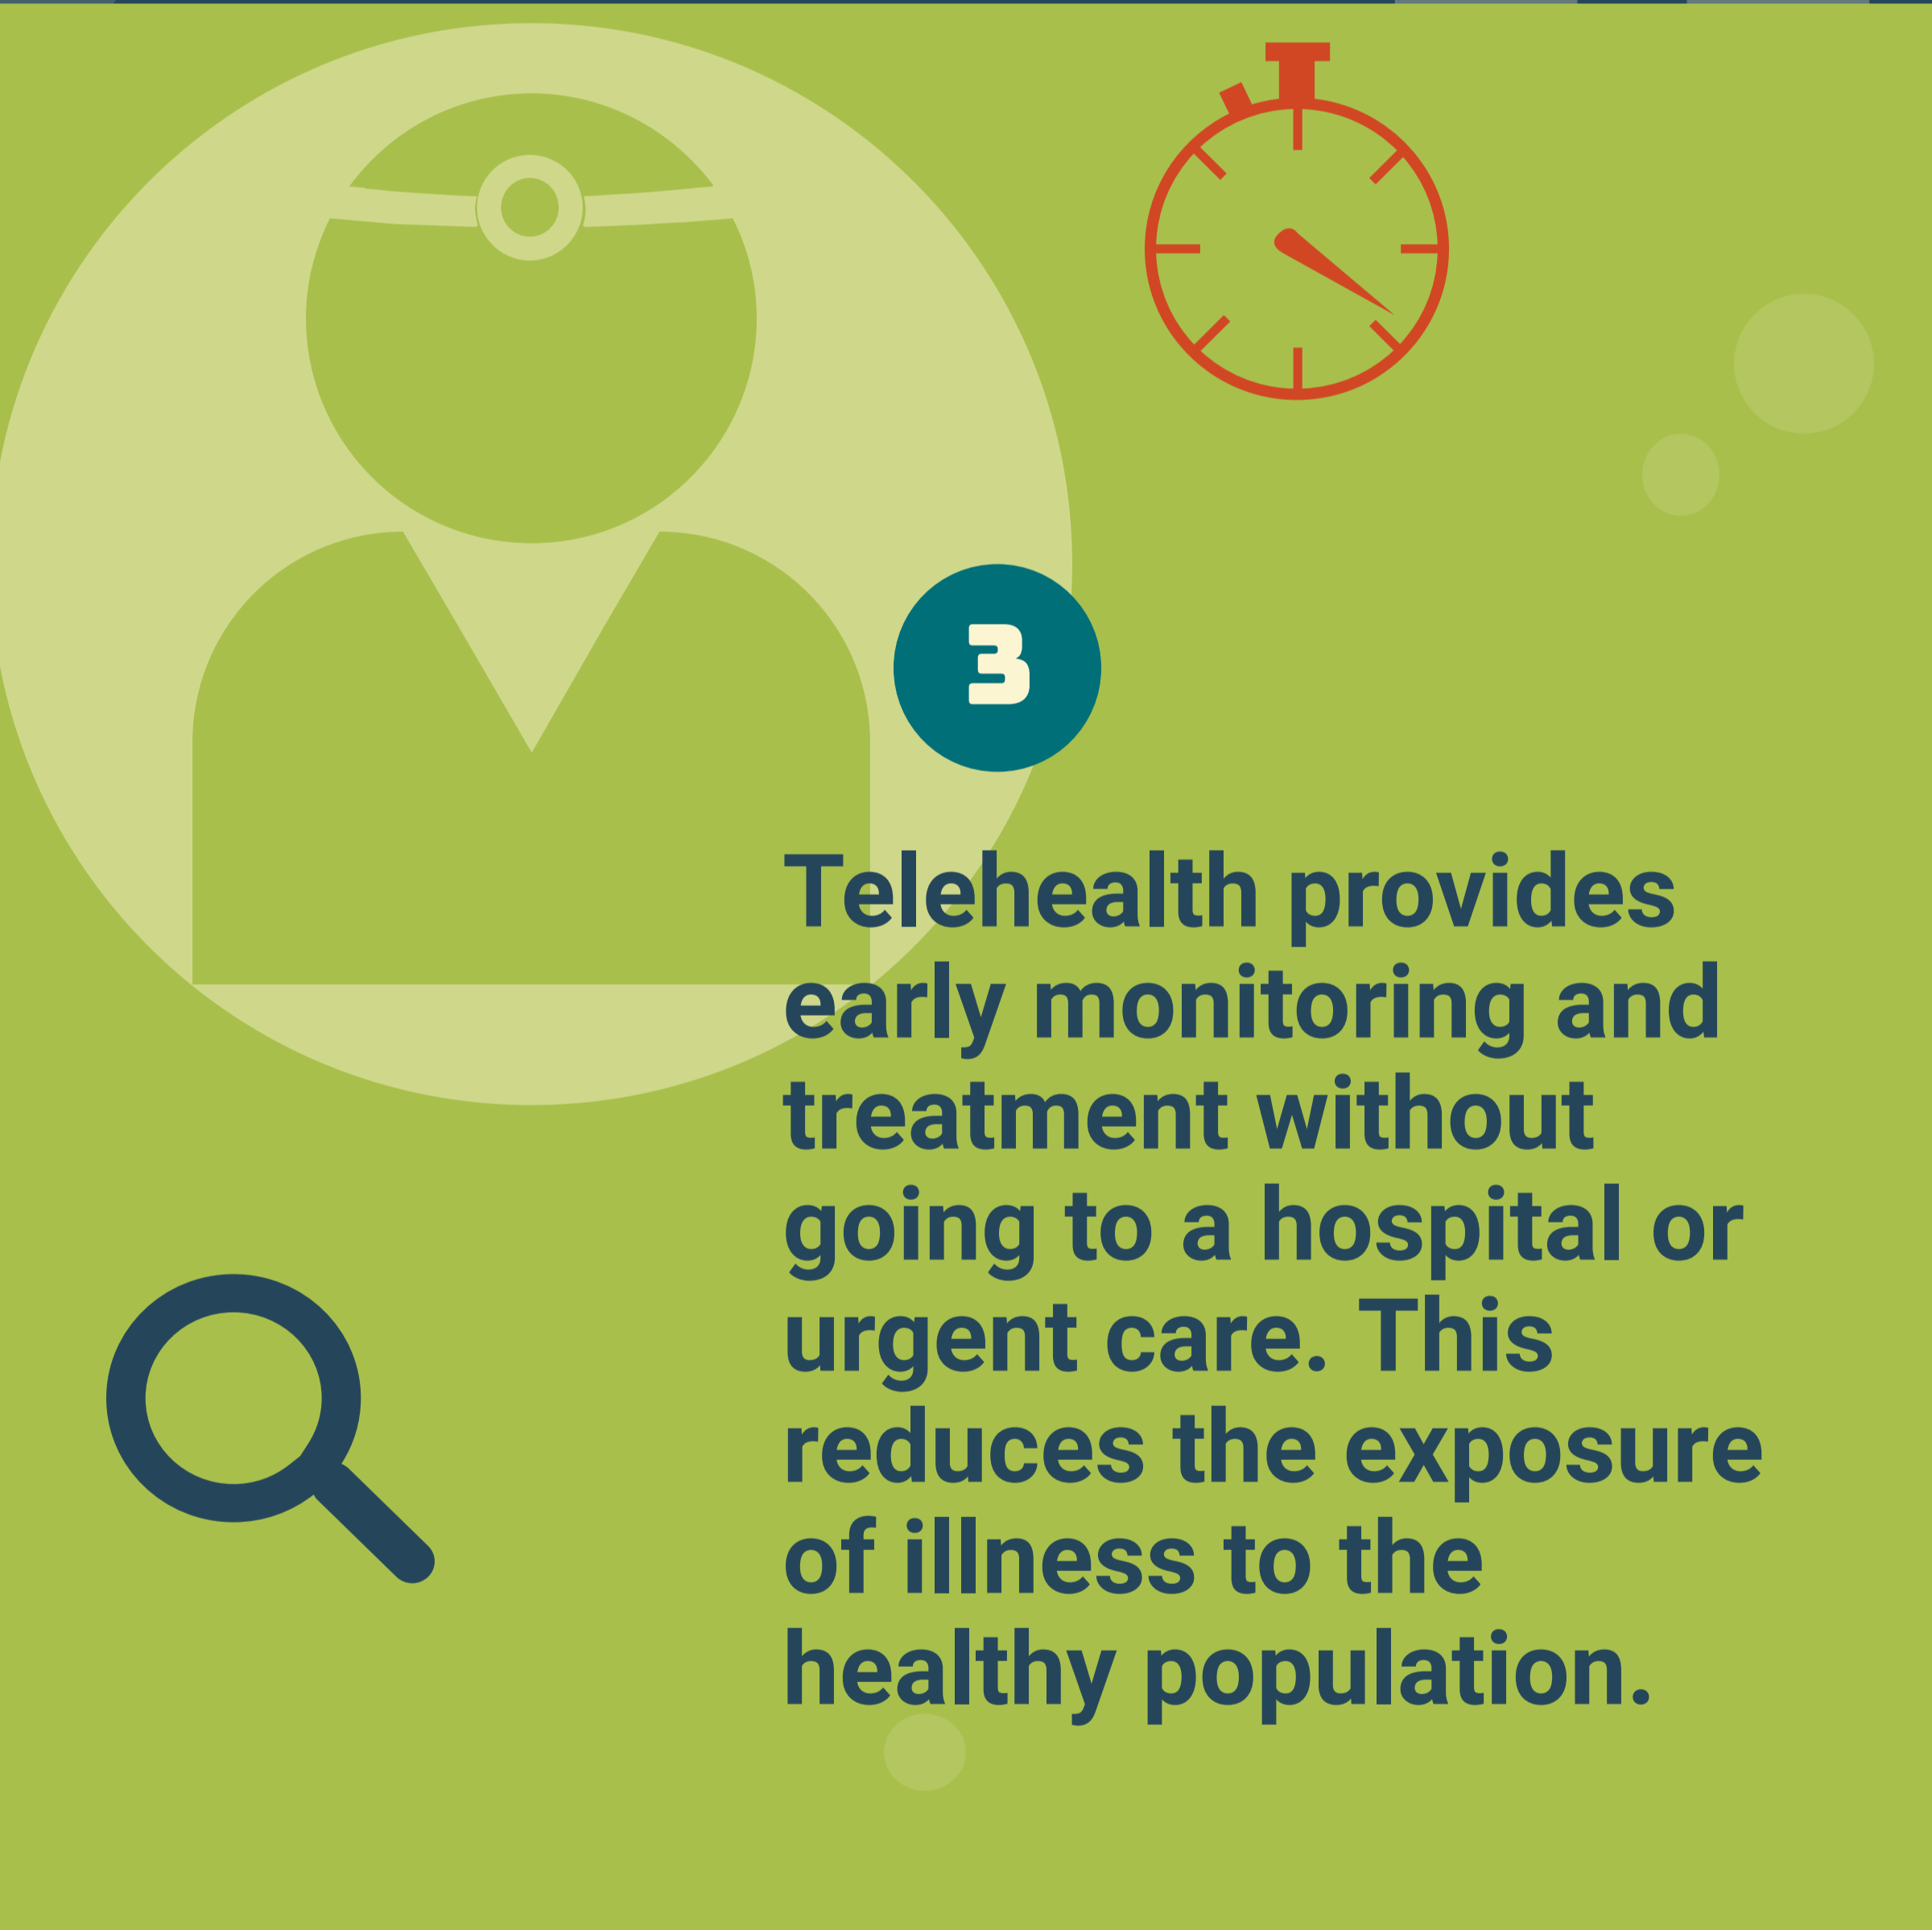

2

Telehealth multiplies workforces in facilities, hospitals, LTC facilities etc. More staff available to help balance the workload.

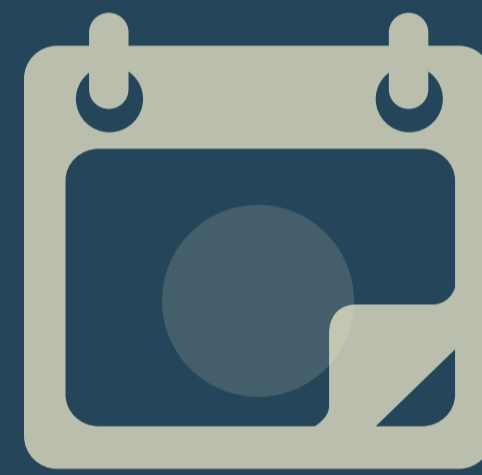

3

Telehealth provides early monitoring and treatment without going to a hospital or urgent care. This reduces the exposure of illness to the healthy population.

4

Telehealth is convenient and efficient. Get patients seen sooner, and maintain regular appointment follow-ups with ease.

Encounter's Role

Encounter is offering our platform, VSee, to our partners and their service providers at this time, in support of Coronavirus prevention and response.
